Proverb. 1. 2. The teacher must first be taught:
the people knoweth not; for he hath good heed, and saith, and he that is in order, and he that is in Kings 4. 30, 31, 32. And Solomon: If thou callest the servant of all the children of the East, &c. For he was a servant of the King, &c.
And he saith: these thousand Proverbs, &c.
Prov. 1. 7. If thou art the Principal thing, there fore get Wisdom; and with all thy getting, get Understanding.

To the READER.

IT is said of Solomon, so much commended for WISDOM, 1 Kings 4. 29. &c. That God gave him wisdom and understanding exceeding much, and largeness of heart, even as the sand that is on the Sea-Shore. And that his wisdom excelled the wisdom of the Children of the East-Country, and all the wisdom of Egypt. And, that he was wiser than all men, &c. And, that his fame was in all Nations round about: Which admirable wisdom of his seemed chiefly to consist in his Proverbs; Who spake, as Vers. 32. three thousand Proverbs; compared with Eccl. 12. 9. The Preacher was wise, he still taught the people knowledge; yea, he gave good heed, and sought out and set in order many Proverbs.

To the Reader.

1. The nature of a Proverb.

For the Nature of them in general. They are short wise Sentences, containing much in a little. The Hebrew word חָכָם (a) signifies (as Buxt.) an excellent Speech, Sentence, Parable, or Similitude, acutely and weightily spoke and comprized in few words. The Greek words, (b) παροιμία, vel παροβολή, as Pasor renders them, import much the same, viz. short Sentences, sometimes comparatively delivered, called by Greek Writers, Ἀξιόματα, Axioms, or worthy sayings; and by the Latins Adagia, Adagies, short Sentences.

(a) חָכָם similitudo
parabola,
proverbium
sententia:
citè graviterque dicta
& paucis concinnata.
Bux. Lex.
 (b) παροιμία,
Proverbium,
Adagium,
Ep. 222.
Parabola,
Joh. 10. 6. παροβολή.
 1. Comparatio alegorica & enigmatica, Mat. 13. 13. 2. Obscura sententia, Mat. 15. 15. 3. Exemplar seu Typus, Heb. 9. 9. 4. Adagium, Luk. 4. 23. 5. Similitudo, Heb. 11. 11. Pas. Lex.

tences. In the Scripture sometimes called, The sayings of the Antients, 1 Sam. 24. 13. because delivered by the wise ancient Fathers or Elders, and therefore Prov. 1. 6. called, The words of the wise; and sometimes, The sayings of old, 2 Sam. 20. 18. Psal. 78. 2. because the approbation and consent of Ages went to make them the usuage of a Nation, being brought by Custom and Tradition to every mouth.

2. The Use of a Proverb.

Proverbs we find are variously laid down and used in Scripture, sometimes by way of Comparison or Similitude, which doth greatly illustrate, as <sup>1. Comparatively.</sup> Prov. 26. 9. As a Thorn goeth up into the hand of a Drunkard, so is a Parable in the mouth of Fools. And vers. 11. As a Dog returneth to his vomit; so a Fool returneth to his folly. Ver. 14. As a Door turneth upon his Hinges, so doth the slothful man upon his Bed. Be wise as Serpents, and harmless as Doves, Mat. 10. 16.

To the Reader.

*The difference betwixt a Proverb
and a Parable.*

And the only difference betwixt this sort of Proverbs and Parables is, That one is a large similitude, the other a short one.

A Parable is a long Proverb, and a Proverb a short Parable; being in Scripture therefore called both by one name, sometimes the Parable called Proverb, and the Proverb called Parable, Mat. 15. 15.

Our Saviour delighted so much in this kind of speaking, that he is said not to have spoke without them, Mat. 13. 34.

2. Ob-scurly. Sometimes in an obscure or ænigmatick way of speaking, and therefore called, Prov. 1. 6. The words of the wise, and their dark sayings.
And Psal. 87. 2. Dark sayings of old; which our Saviour therefore usually explained, as not being understood many times by his Auditors, as John 10. 6. Mat. 15. 11, — 15, 16, 17 ver. Mar. 13. 11. And therefore it is said to him upon his explanation, *John 16.
26. Now speakest thou plainly, and speakest no Proverb,* opposing plain speaking to proverbial or Paribolical.

Some

Above all gettings, get understanding. Fools make a mock of sin. Man lives not by bread alone. Evil communication corrupts good manners. &c.*

3. The End of a Proverb.

The end of a Proverb is for information of the mind, and reformation of the manners; and best exprest by Solomon himself, in his own words, Prov. 1. 2, 3. To know Wisdom and Instruction; to perceive the words of Understanding; to receive the Instruction of Wisdom, Justice, Judgment and Equity. And this Universally to all sorts, degrees, age and sexes, young and old, poor and rich, learned and unlearned, foolish and wise; therefore vers. 45. To give

To the wise and understanding, increase of learning, and the attaining to wise Counsels; to the understanding of a Proverb, or an eloquent Speech, (as the Margent) the words of the Wise, and their dark Sayings.* It is said, the wisdom of the Ancient Grecians, that wise and understanding Nation, consisted much in their Proverbs; and to this day they are accounted the best evidence of the Wisdom of a Nation, whereof Collections are generally made, and Records usually kept.

4. The Order of Solomon's Proverbs.

As for the Order of Solomon's Proverbs, they are without any methodical contexture, or near dependance upon each other, which makes them the more abstruse, and difficult to the Reader; are therefore, for better help of Memory, brought into this method and order, being Alphabetically collected out of the Proverbs and Ecclesiastes; and though designed only for private use, is here tendred to the publick, as profitable fitable for all; but especially recommended to the wise improvement of Judicious School-masters, by whose ingenuity, these excellent Adagies, and worthy sayings, so full of Wisdom and knowledge, so expressly leading to every duty, both to God, our selves and Neighbours, and of such Universal concern, may by Gods blessing be improved in School-learning, to instil such excellent Principles as may not only leave divine impressions upon the minds of their youth, but most admirably direct to every moral accomplishment, containing not only the true wisdom, (teaching the fear of the Lord) but all other necessary learning, as well Ethicks, viz. matters pertaining to moral virtues, as Prudence, Justice, Temperance, &c. As Oeconomicks, viz. matters of Domestick or Family concerns, relating to the duties of husbands, wives, Parents, Children, Masters and Servants. And Politicks also, relating to Government, and matters of State: so that Plato, Aristotle, Cicero, &c. and other Heathenish School-Authors, are not to be named with Solomon,

Of Wisdom.

THE great Jehovah, who inhabits light,
Appear'd to Solomon in a dream by night,
And said, Ask now what I shall give to thee?
Suppose now (Mortals) this same question be
Propos'd to you, Let's hear, what would you say?
And how would you dispose your choice, I pray?
Give me (saith one) in Riches to abound:
Give me (saith t'other) Honour and Renown.
But what saith Solomon? O Lord impart
To me a wise and understanding heart.
Wise was thy choice, wise Solomon, to which God therefore added to be Great and Rich.
The wisest Lord did know, that only he Could rightly use both Wealth and Dignity,
Who steer'd his course by wisdoms sage advice;
Here's the true Honour, here's the Pearl of Price.
For what's a Fool, that is with riches grac'd,
A Swine, in whose fowl snout a Gem is plac'd.
Or what's a Fool, on whom honour doth wait?
A long ear'd-Ass sitting in Chair of State.
The Miser is a fool, and so is he
That spends his wealth in prodigality:
Whom, if they went to Wisdom, she would show
A fair and middle path wherein to go.

And

Of Wisdom.

*And art thou great? be not a fool, for thus Thou'lt make thy folly more conspicuous.
Acquaint thy self with Wisdom, wait upon her,
And she will add true glory to thine honour.
By her Kings reign, and Princes do decree
By her advice, Justice and Equity.
A fool that is in honour doth but show
Himself to be a fool in Folio.
May n<sup>t</sup> Rehoboam justly stiled be,
A famous fool, a fool in high degree?
Whom Israels ten Tribes forsook because
He wilfully forsook grave Wisdoms Laws;
While he'ld advice of Seniors refus'd,
And the rash counsel of the Young Men us'd?
Justly might Wisdom then preferred be
By Solomon, 'bove wealth and dignity:
With him she, above all, the Conquest won,
Wisdom was justified by her Son:
Into whose breasts she did a flame inspire,
Which will last longer than the Vestal fire;
A sacred flame it is, which ne're will die,
But now burns for us to warm us by:
A flame that gives not only heat but light,
Not only warms the heart, but guides the sight.
O Peerless Wisdom! teach us how to prize thee,
That wealth nor honour may not equallize thee;
Without thee they are worse than nothing; Thou
Art without them both wealth and honour too.
That we may know thy worth, let's search and see,
From whence thou dost derive thy Pedegree.*

Though

Of Wisdom.

Though equal honour be not to thee given,
Yet thou'rt the off-spring of the King of Heaven,
Wisdom doth shine in all his works, which he
Grants man sometimes through Wisdoms glass to see.
View now and read, Natures great Volume, look
Wisdom's in every leaf of Natures Book.
Behold how she hath knit the whole Creation
In a most glorious link to admiration.
They're happy who with Contemplations eye
The hidden secrets of her glory spie.
O foolish man, that didst not know her price,
But didst forsake her, and so Paradise:
Whose mind the mists of Ignorance now cloud,
While she in Heaven doth her glory shroud.
Yet God (whom goodness doth delight) hath given
A Palace to her here beneath the Heaven;
That man (who did despise her glory) might
In darkness see his folly by her light;
A light, O blessed light, that shews the way,
From which blind man hath so long gone astray,
But where doth Wisdoms Palace stand, you say?
For this therefore, listen a while (I pray)
T' a Pilgrim, who hath wandered about,
And sought to find this famous Palace out.
I went not far, when lo! I did espie,
Far off, a Fabrick, beauteous to my eye,
In a fair Prospect: I approacht therefore,
And saw men crown'd with Lawrel at the door;
They call'd them Poets: who, when as they knew
I sought for Wisdoms Palace, all the crew
Cry'd

Of Wisdom.

Cry'd out, Pray enter, and it will appear,
That Wisdom (whom you seek for) dwelleth
I entred then, and saw at my ingress, (here.
Rooms garnish'd to the life, I must confess;
What Carvers art, or Painters skill could doe,
Was represented there unto my view.
But where's the Room where Wisdom doth abide,
Wherein she doth her beams of glory hide?
She's in that Room, (said they) so in I came;
Loe t'was a Strumpet there, Fancy by Name,
Whose whole Attire was very gay and spruce,
Yet very wanton, and her gestures loose;
Yet these same foolish Poets fell before her,
And, as a Goddess, did they all adore her.
Farewel (said I) for yet it don't appear,
That Wisdom (whom I seek for) dwelleth here.
Soon I went my journey, till my host,
Had brought me to a certain place at last,
In which I saw men arguing together,
Who asked me, What'twas that brought me thither?
To seek for Wisdom, I reply'd: but they
(And called them Philosophers) did say,
Enter this Palace, and it will appear,
That Wisdom (whom you seek for) dwelleth
I entered in, the Rooms did shine with Gold, (here.
And were all very glorious to behold:
But yet although 'twas Gold unto my view,
I fear the Gold was counterfeit, not true.
And here and there were plac'd in divers stations,
Both grave advices, and fine speculations,
I could

Of Wisdom.

I could not see distinctly; for my sight
Was only guided by the Candle light
Of nature. --- But where's Wisdom? O repair
(Replied they) to that Chamber, for she's there.
Yea, this is she, said I; but coming nigh,
I could no signs of life or motion spie;
But saw she was an Image made by Art,
Assimilating Wisdom in each part.
O then, thought I, true Wisdom life hath got,
And is from God above, but this is not.
Farewell (said I) for yet it don't appear,
That Wisdom (whom I seek for) dwelleth here.
So I departed thence with speedy feet,
Whenas I found that was not Wisdoms Seat.
And in my progress, I at last did see,
Some persons wearing Wisdoms Livery.
Grace in their hearts: Then I enquiry made
Where Wisdoms Palace was: they straight way said,
'Enter these Scriptures, and it will appear,
'That Wisdom (whom you seek for) dwelleth here.
'Whose glory ('tis so great) tongue can't express,
'When you have entred, you will say no less
'She's glorious within, enlightned eyes
'Do see such beauties which they can't but prize
'She hath one Room all hung with Pearls (you'l see)
'King Sol mons Proverbs full of dignity.
'She teaches how to manage every state
In which you fall; she'l teach to moderate
Prosperity; she'l make affliction bright;
She is a cloud by day, and flame by night
" She'l

Of Wisdom.

"She'll shew you secret joys, true comforts, and
"E'relasting pleasures, ev'n at Gods right hand.
Ob! now I have found her Palace, let me wait,
Till Wisdom shall be pleas'd to ope her Gate.

Of a Proverb.

Who searches oft in smal things, worth descries
A pearl is small, and yet of a great price:
A Proverb is a Pearl then, rich, though small,
But Scriptural most precious is of all.
King Solomon hath left Posterity,
A rich and everlasting Legacy;
A Cabinet of Pearls, which all may take,
None shall they yet their fellows poorer make:
You may perhaps be owner of't, and yet
I also may enjoy the Cabinet.
Who will not then this Cab'net prize and keep?
They'r precious Pearls, although they'r in a heap.
You'l say, perhaps, they'r mixt together;---Well,
Loe here, each Jewel hath it's proper Cell,
And as your use requires, you may repair
To such a Cell, and have a Jewel there.

3. Wisdom will deliver thee from a strange woman, the stranger that flattereth with her words, which forsaketh the guide of her youth, and forgetteth the covenant of her God: for her house inclineth unto death, and her paths unto the dead, 2. 16, 17, 18.

4. Remove thy way far from the strange Woman, and come not near the door of her house; lest thou give thine honor unto others, and thy years to the cruel; lest strangers be filled with thy wealth, and thy labours be in the house of a stranger; and thou mourn at the last when thy flesh and body are consumed; and say, how have I hated instruction, &c. 5. 9, 10, 11, 12.

5. For three things the earth is disquieted, and for four it cannot bear; for a Servant when he reigneth, and a fool when he is filled with meat; for an odious Woman when she is Married, and an hand-maid that is Heir to her Mistress, 30. 21, 22, 23.

6. I find more bitter than death, the Woman whose heart is snares and nets, and her hands as bands; whoso pleaseth God shall escape from her; but the sinner shall be taken by her, Eccl. 7. 26.

7. The mouth of a strange Woman is a deep pit; he that is abhorred of the Lord, shall fall therein, 22. 14.
